

Dear Chris,

You read that right. This year, one person can attend a 90-credit, comprehensive lactation exam course without paying for the course. Better still, that person can feel confident that this 90-credit course provides a rock-solid foundation for her professional future. The course has earned the prestigious LEARCC recognition, so you know you are getting top-quality education.

You don't need a course right now? Pass this on to a friend who has big ambitions and a small wallet.

Is there a hitch? A tiny one. You must apply for the Felix Biancuzzo Scholarship by June 30. Anyone is eligible, but must complete an application no later than June 30. Start today; this application is fairly lengthy. Two scholarships will be awarded; one full scholarship, and one partial scholarship. Do not be afraid to apply if you are not a nurse; one's educational background is not a requirement for eligibility. In the past, nurses and non-nurses have been scholarship recipients.

Part of the course is taught by internet; the other part is taught live in 5 cities throughout the United States. Faculty for the course is Marie Biancuzzo. For non-scholarship recipients, we offer a payment plan. Everyone is urged to start the electronic part of the course this summer.
